Barrett, The Honors College at Arizona State University is hiring multiple teaching faculty for its newly established T.W. Lewis Center for Personal Development. We seek to hire full-time lecturers from a variety of academic and professional backgrounds for a one-year, potentially renewable, contract.

ASU is a comprehensive public research university, measured not by whom it excludes, but by whom it includes and how they succeed; advancing research and discovery of public value; and assuming fundamental responsibility for the economic, social, cultural and overall health of the communities it serves. The Barrett Honors College attracts many of the top students in the country and provides them with an enriched academic experience that challenges them to become better citizens of the world. Typical incoming students at Barrett are in the top five percent of their high school classes, and our student body is highly diverse, comprised of approximately 41% students of color, and 19% first-generation students.

The mission of the T.W. Lewis Center for Personal Development at Barrett is to inspire, educate, and assist students in the achievement of their personal best throughout the journey to success and happiness. The Lewis Center does this through a wide variety of innovative courses, workshops and an engaging speaker series. Offerings by the Lewis Center are exclusively for Barrett students. Although housed on the Tempe Campus of Arizona State University, the Lewis Center serves students on all four of Barrett’s and ASU’s campus locations (Tempe, Polytechnic, Downtown Phoenix, and West Phoenix).

Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to develop and teach a variety of 1-3 credit courses on topics related to Happiness, Leadership, Career Management, Entrepreneurship, Free Enterprise, and Personal Success. Sample course titles include the following:

- Success, Happiness, Meaning & Purpose
- Multi-Discipline Entrepreneurship
- Self-Awareness & Career Success
- Self-Awareness & Leadership
- Life Skills & Personal Finance

Faculty members will also serve as Honors Thesis Advisors, supervise internships, facilitate speaking events and Personal Development workshops, and work directly with students on personal assessments and other Personal Development initiatives.

We invite applications from candidates from a variety of academic and professional disciplines who have terminal degrees in their field of expertise.

Required Qualifications:

- A terminal degree in a relevant field of expertise
